Redwood City 2020 Tuesday Tidbits

Inside this edition:
COVID-19 Emergency Rental Assistance Program Volunteer Progress

COVID-19 Emergency Rental Assistance Program Volunteer Progress

Redwood City 2020 has partnered with the Fair Oaks Community Center in coordinating a volunteer effort to help individuals and families in need apply online for the City of Redwood City's COVID-19 Emergency Rental Program.

Throughout the month of April, with training and guidance from Redwood City 2020 and Fair Oaks Community Center staff, volunteers helped 95 individuals and families overcome technological barriers and navigate the COVID-19 Emergency Rental Assistance Program application process.

As Rental Assistance Application Volunteers made swift progress, Redwood City 2020 offered to extend the volunteer support to other community partners who are also assisting families and individuals of their organizations apply for the rental assistance. As such, this volunteer effort has now been extended to support families connected with United Through Education (Familias Unidas) in applying for the COVID-19 Emergency Rental Assistance Program.

Important COVID-19 Emergency Rental Assistance Program Update:

Due to the volume of applications and limited resources, the City of Redwood City recently initiated a waitlist starting Monday, May 11th. Waitlisted applications will be addressed after the initial wave of applications have been processed and pending availability of funds. Any community members concerned about evictions can view important information and resources on the City of Redwood City's Housing Resources webpage.
